CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

COMPRESSION GARMENT POLICY

FEBRUARY 3, 2012

It is QRL Policy that, in a match environment (below NRL) Compression Garments may only be worn as follows:-

- The length of the garment must not extend below the elbow or knee of the player, outside the neck/collar of the jersey, or the length of the playing sock;
- Compression Garments may only be black, or an approved colour, which must be the colour of the playing shorts;
- Branding and/or logos, other than the manufacturer's logo, is not permitted on any compression garment;

The wearing of full length compression garments is not permitted, unless approved by the relevant Division Manager on the advice of Medical documentation.

Note: to be addressed through NRL Chief Medical Officer to seek advice on what medical grounds may be permissible.
